Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The terminology "one or more groups" and "carboxyl" (claim 1) is not disclosed or suggested by the specification as originally filed.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Venturello et al (European Patent No. 0 146 374) in combination with Young (U.S. Patent No. 2,813,908) or the British Patent GB 1 208 144.

Venturello et al disclose a process for preparing diols by reacting an olefin in the presence of hydrogen peroxide and a polymer (pages 506) but do not disclose the use of a polymer having a sulfonic group. However, since Young (column 2) and the British Patent'144 (page 1, column 2) disclose the use of polymers having sulfonic groups in the hydration of olefins, a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time the claimed invention was made would have been motivated to use polymers having sulfonic groups in the process disclosed by Venturello et al because such a person would have expected to produce the claimed diols.

Applicant's arguments filed October 19, 2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant contends that Venturello fails to disclose or suggest the use of a polymer catalyst having a sulfonic group. And that Young and the British Patent'144 disclose a method of making a monohydroxyl alcohol and ether based on a hydration reaction of olefin and water. Applicant also contends that a catalyst in a chemical reaction is unique to a specific chemical reaction. Applicant's arguments have been considered but have not been found persuasive. It was known in the art at the time the claimed invention was made that the preparation of diols requires hydrogenation of olefins in the presence hydrogen peroxide and a catalyst as disclosed by Venturello et al. It was also well known in the art at the time the present invention was made that polymers having sulfonic groups are very useful as catalysts in the hydration of olefins as disclosed by Young and the British Patent'144. Thus Yong and the British Patent'144 provide a motivation for use of polymers having sulfonic acid groups as catalysts in the hydration of olefins. Note that the rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103 does not require 100% predictability. Therefore, the claimed process is still deemed prima facie obvious over the cited prior art.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
